

Chlorella vulgaris cultivation under super high light intensity: an application of the flashing light effect

Supplementary materials

Victor Pozzobon¹

¹LGPM, CentraleSupélec, Université Paris-Saclay, SFR Condorcet FR CNRS 3417, Centre Européen de Biotechnologie et de Bioéconomie (CEBB), 3 rue des Rouges Terres 51110 Pomacle, France

Total carotenoid to total chlorophyll ratio

Figure 1 reports the ratio of total carotenoid (lutein and zeaxanthin) content to the total chlorophyll (a and b) content for the tested conditions.

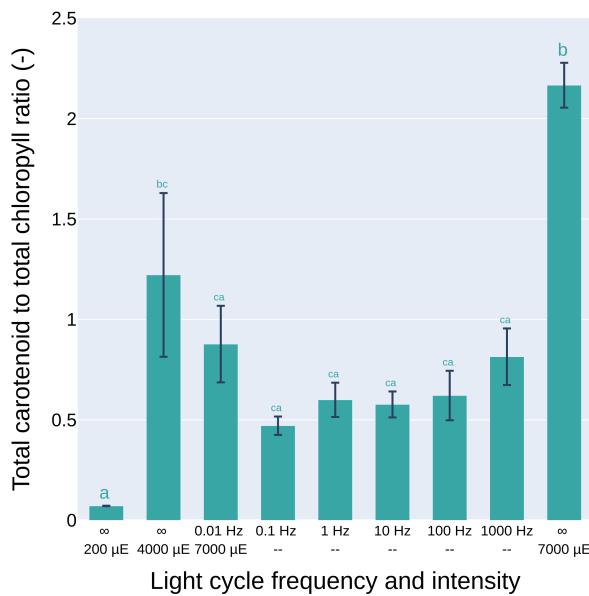

Fig. 1. Total carotenoid to the total chlorophyll ratio for the different conditions. ∞ - continuous light. Error bars - spread. Compact letter display based on Tukey's HSD test ($p < 0.05$)